Environmental Management of the Centre:

Since Scout Valley is a new centre and still under constant development every building we have is being created with ecological efficiency in mind, so environmental management is extremely important in our everyday life. Off-grid electricity is available only for leaders, not for campers, so the people who stay here get a feeling of really running away from civilization. We use composting toilets and summer showers, which are refilled with the water from the pond. A strict recycling policy is implemented, and all the visitors are introduced and instructed to the correct way of recycling.
